

THE STATE OF FOOD ACCESS IN MICHIGAN

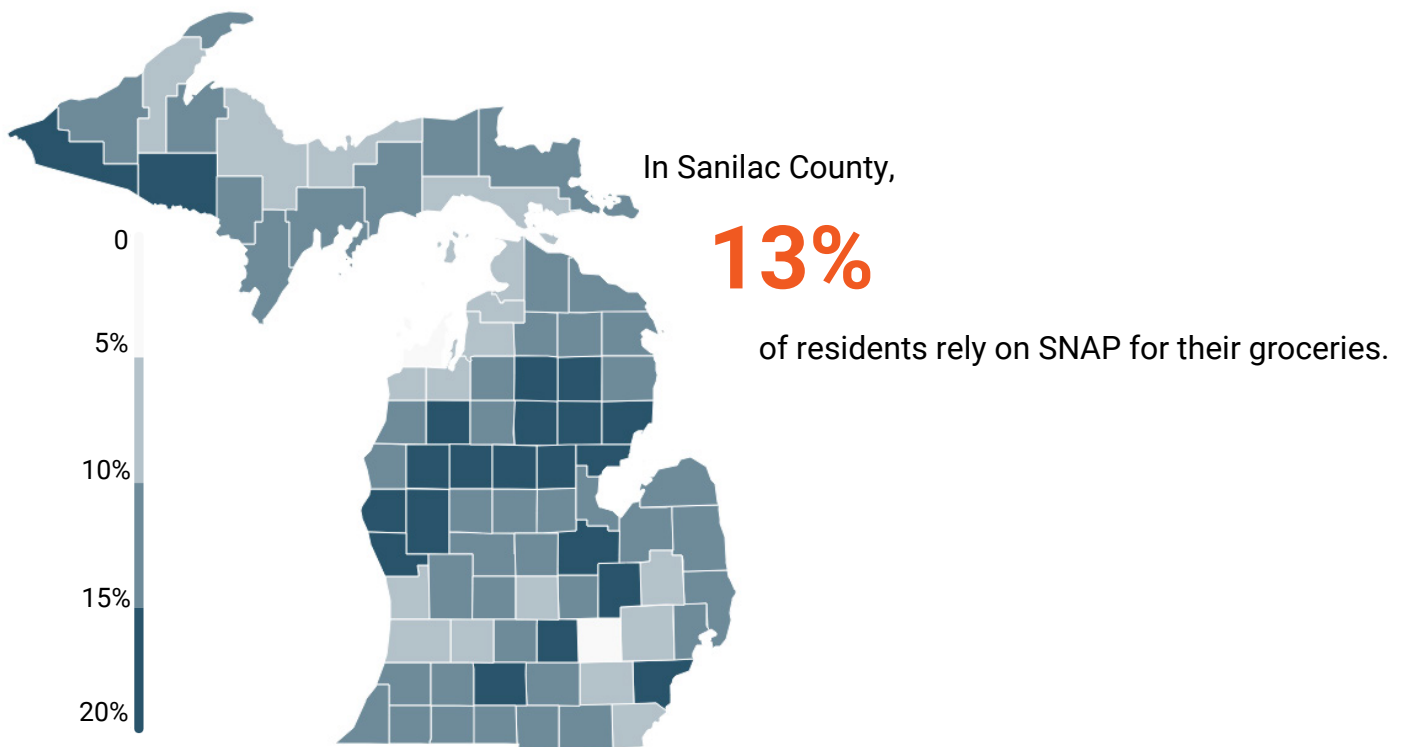

Spotlight on Sanilac County

Julie Cassidy | Senior Policy Analyst | Michigan League for Public Policy
May 2026

All Michigan families should have access to the food they need, but cuts to the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) as a part of last year's federal megabill will exacerbate food insecurity in Michigan, threatening the 1.4 million Michiganders who participate in this effective and vital program.

People in every county in Michigan use SNAP to put food on the table.

Percentage of residents who use SNAP (by county)

Source: Michigan Department of Health and Human Services, 2025

A modestly priced meal
in Sanilac County costs

$3.07.

At a maximum of $2.83 per person per meal, current SNAP benefits aren't enough to cover a family's nutrition needs anywhere in the state.

SNAP goes a long way toward helping families access healthy foods, but

8%

of each meal is still not covered.

Source: Urban Institute, 2025

Child food insecurity in Michigan is especially important to address as it can have dire consequences on physical and mental health, as well as academic performance.

Percentage of children facing food insecurity (by county)

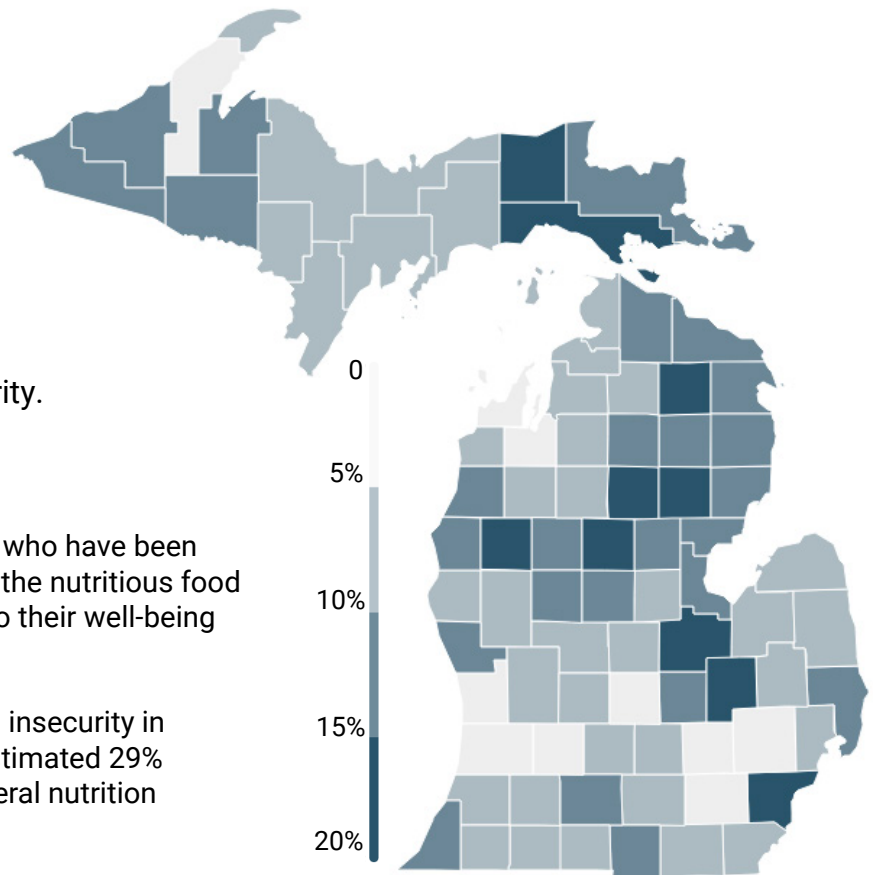

In Sanilac County,

21%

of kids are facing food insecurity.

Ensuring the 1 in 4 children in Michigan who have been supported by SNAP continue to receive the nutritious food they need to grow and thrive is critical to their well-being and their future success.

The share of children experiencing food insecurity in Michigan in 2023 was 19.1%, with an estimated 29% of these children likely ineligible for federal nutrition programs.

Source: Feeding America, 2023

The rising cost of basic needs is putting increasing pressure on families, with food prices among the leading drivers.

Change in Price for U.S. Household Needs, 2022-2026

Source: U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics as reported by CBS News Price Tracker, 2026