

Federal American Opportunity Tax Credit

Tax Year 2018

WHAT IS IT?

The American Opportunity Tax Credit (AOTC), first enacted for tax year 2009 and made permanent in 2015, provides a credit to help defray costs of pursuing higher education. The credit is worth up to $2,500, and it is partially refundable up to $1,000. The AOTC may be claimed even if the individual earns too little to owe income tax. The AOTC can make education more affordable for many more families and students with low incomes who might not otherwise be able to attend college.

WHO QUALIFIES?

The AOTC is available to students who are in their first four years of college (the Hope Credit covered only the first two years) and are pursuing an undergraduate degree. Filers may be eligible for the AOTC if they:

- Paid for “qualified educational expenses” for themselves, their spouse or their dependents at an “eligible educational institution,” and
- Have adjusted gross income in 2018 less than $80,000; $160,000 if married. The amount of the AOTC phases out at income levels above this.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

Filers can claim up to $2,500. The AOTC is figured by taking the first $2,000 paid toward the student’s qualified educational expenses and adding 25% of the next $2,000 in educational expenses. The AOTC provides a refundable credit worth 40% of this total, up to $1,000. If no income tax is owed, the filer still qualifies for an AOTC up to $1,000. If tax is owed, the balance of the credit is used to reduce the filer’s tax liability.

Qualified educational expenses include:

- Tuition (after the subtraction of tax-free contributions, such as scholarships, fellowships, Pell Grants, employer assistance and veterans’ assistance).
- Course-related materials, whether or not they are purchased from the educational institution.

The following are not qualifying expenses: insurance, medical expenses, room and board, transportation, other living or family expenses and child care.

HOW DO FILERS CLAIM THE CREDIT?

Filers must use IRS Form 8863 to claim the credit. It must be attached to the tax return. Students can use their Form 1098-T to help them calculate their credits.

SAVE MONEY!

You can find out where to get free tax help at www.michiganfreetaxhelp.org.

